

Call for Participation and Networking – Young Academics Forum within the Conference of the Association of Cultural Management

Annual Conference of the Association of Cultural Management

Berlin, 20. September 2023: Institute for Research on Cultural Participation (IKTf) in cooperation with Macromedia University and University of Applied Sciences Berlin (HTW)

Are you a PhD student, an advanced masters student, or a young researcher in Arts or Cultural Management? Would you like to connect with fellow PhD students from our discipline and share ideas, best practices, questions, and information?

The Young Academics Working Group of the Association for Cultural Management is introducing a new format at this year's conference. We want to try new paths in connecting and building a network of PhD students and young researchers in Cultural Management by creating an open forum for exchange. The Forum will be an informal gathering on the first conference day. It is considered an opportunity to connect with like-minded PhD students and jointly develop ideas on how the Young Academics Working Group could support your PhD process.

Wednesday, 20.09.2023, Macromedia University (estimated schedule):

10:00	Welcome
10:15 – 11:15	Elevator Pitches and Introduction of the Participants → Give a short overview of your PhD project!
11:15	Walk & Talk → Get in touch with like-minded PhD students and go for a walk together to talk in more depth (while having a coffee)
11:45 – 12:45	Round Table → Let's exchange on topics related to our PhD, such as Ethics, Field Work, Publishing, etc. The aim is to collect ideas on how the Young Academics Working Group could support the PhD students and which formats and topics are required.
12:45	Wrap Up

Please sign up for the Forum until 31.08.2023 by sending an Email to youngacademics@fachverband-kulturmanagement.org, including your name, the topic of your PhD, supervisor, institution/university, and the start of the project. Pitches and discussions may be held in German or English. Participation in the main conference is free of charge for PhD students taking part in the Young Academics Forum. Submitting a paper for a presentation at the Young Academics Panel at the main conference (see CfP Young Academics Panel) is also possible.

More general information on the conference can be found at: <https://www.fachverband-kulturmanagement.org/jahrestagung2023>. We also would like to invite young academics to join our group on Social Media (LinkedIn & Facebook): "Fachverband Kulturmanagement PhD and Early Career Researchers."
