Call for Proposals – Young Academics Panel within the Annual Conference of the Association of Cultural Management

Annual Conference of the Association of Cultural Management

Berlin, 20. – 22. September 2023: Institute for Research on Cultural Participation (IKTf) in cooperation with Macromedia University and University of Applied Sciences Berlin (HTW)

The Young Academics Working Group of the Association for Cultural Management would like to invite PhD and doctorate students as well as advanced masters students in Arts and Cultural Management to submit proposals for a presentation at the Young Academics Panel at the main conference on 22. September.

The Young Academics Panel is open to any thematic and methodological focus within the field of Arts and Cultural management. Proposals may be submitted, and presentations may be held in English or German. We warmly welcome international students to submit their work. The Young Academics Panel aims to give a platform to young academics for presenting their research to and/or discussing their research with an interested expert and scientific public as part of the main conference.

In your proposal, please briefly describe your research topic and main research question. Each presentation may take up to 10 min, followed by 15 min discussion.

Please submit your proposal (approximately 1 page) until 15 July 2023 to youngacademics@fachverband-kulturmanagement.org, including your name, (working) title of the project, supervisor, institution/university, and start of the project. The selection is based on peer review. The Association of Cultural Management will confirm your participation in the Young Academics Panel. Participation in the conference is free of charge for those presenting at the Young Academics Panel. It is also possible to join the Young Academics Forum on the 20th of September (see CfP Young Academics Forum).

More general information on the conference can be found at <https://www.fachverband-kulturmanagement.org/jahrestagung2023>. We also would like to invite young academics to join our group on Social Media (LinkedIn & Facebook): “Fachverband Kulturmanagement PhD and Early Career Researchers.”
